

Cohn-Haddow

Center for Judaic Studies

Budapest, 1900: Reflections on Urban Jewish Life

A Faculty Seminar Presentation by:

Howard Lupovitch

Associate Professor of History

Director Cohn-Haddow Center for Judaic Studies

Wayne State University

Life for Jews in Budapest, circa 1900, was an odd combination of assimilation and reinvigorated Jewish identity. The result was one of the most diverse Jewish communities in the world.

Thursday, February 13, 2014

12 noon

Wayne State University

Faculty/Administration Building

Room 2339

BUDAPEST. Dohány-utcai zsinagóga. — Synagoge in der Dohány-utca

Co-sponsored by: The Humanities Center